

Seasons

Winter	Spring	Summer	Autumn
June, July and August Temp = 7-27 degree C Cloudless days and mild temperatures. Landscapes outside the Okavango Delta begin their drying process, gradually fading from lush green to dry khaki colours. In the Delta, the floodwaters from Angola start to fill the countless lagoons and streams.	September and October Temp = 20-40 degree C Towards end Oct can get hot & have the occasional rain shower. Excellent game viewing at this time of year due to the lack of thick vegetation and the water holes are drying up	November thru to March Rainy season = January & February Temp = 16-32 degrees C Rainy season has brief but occasionally heavy rain. Excellent game viewing and you may be lucky to witness the miracle that the rains bring, transforming the dry land to a vibrant abundance of lush greenery.	April and May Temp = 15-31 degrees C. April and May are both delightful months to visit Botswana marked by moderate temperatures, with average temperatures ranging

When you choose to go on safari in Botswana will largely depend on when you are available to travel, but if you have flexibility to choose then it becomes a matter of what you are looking for from your trip and the seasons affect both wildlife movements and your comfort level – both influencing factors in deciding when to travel.